The Christmas Daddies Telethon started back in November of 1964. Two gentlemen, Jim Hill Sr. and Jack Dalton who worked at CJCH Radio & TV were having lunch at the Derby Tavern in Halifax when they witnessed a young boy begging for money. The child was quickly removed by the staff but he kept coming back. When they discovered that the boy wanted money to buy food for his mother and baby sister, they passed a hat collecting about $15 for the youngster, an astonishing amount of money in 1964.

That experience prompted discussions back at the station about how many families might be in a similar situation.

“How would these parents give their children the wonderful Christmas every child deserves?”

They came up with an answer and the very first Christmas Daddies show was born! The airtime and the equipment was donated by the TV station, the staff volunteered their time, musicians donated their talent and $1500 was raised for less fortunate kids.

From this very modest beginning fast forward to today and you'll find a thriving organization that has raised more than $38.5 million and is making a difference in the lives of thousands of Maritime children providing toys, gifts and food every Christmas. Christmas Daddies funds are distributed through The Salvation Army.

Broadcast on the first Saturday in December, Bell Media donates the technical equipment and airtime for the event, artists from across the Maritimes donate their talent and hundreds of CTV Atlantic staff, family members and friends donate their time and services to make the telethon possible.

In true Maritime spirit, the Christmas Daddies Telethon continues to give the gift of Christmas to children across our region thanks to generous donors like you.
